Observations

For the month of September 2015, the average daily jail population housed declined to 8,638, a reduction of 92 persons from August. The decline can be attributed to fewer pretrial state jail felony detainees and fewer post-adjudicated TDC/state jail prisoners.

The average daily jail population housed is down 21% from the first meeting of the Council in September 2009 when the population totaled 10,941 inmates, which was 16% over design capacity and 7% over TCJS approved capacity. Including approved variance beds, the average daily jail population housed of 8,638 was 7.2% below the effective housing capacity. Without the use of variance beds, average daily jail population housed was 1.5% below effective housing capacity.

Pretrial detainees represent 76% (6,827 persons) of the total jail population, up 12% (718 persons) from December 2014. The District Court state jail felony detainee population declined 96 persons from the previous month but remains up 26% (274 persons) from the December 2014. The County Court pretrial detainee population increased 3% (15 persons) from last month and is up 24% (100 persons) from December 2014.

Post-adjudicated County prisoners represent 8% of the total jail population, up 19 persons from last month, but down 28% (282 persons) from September 2014. 654 persons or 7% of the total population are post-adjudicated prisoners sentenced to TDC or state jail, down 7% (52 persons) from one month ago.

The number of parole violators increased 12% (32 persons) from last month, and is up 6% from one year ago.

The number of inmates awaiting transfer to TDCJ-ID (i.e. Paper Ready) averaged 424, down 9% from last month.

During the month of September, 27% (2,373 persons) of the average daily jail population housed had a mental health history (previously diagnosed or prescribed psychotropic medication). 918 of these 2,373 had either self-identified as being homeless or had received homeless services in the community prior to incarceration. An additional 12% (1,073 persons) of the average daily jail population housed met the same homeless criteria.

Note: Fluctuation in the jail population as reported here is influenced by a variety of factors such as the number of cases filed, the number of people who are released on bond, the length of time to complete a case, holds placed on Harris County inmates by other jurisdictions, length of sentences handed down, the effect of early release programs, parole board processing of cases, and the list goes on. The changes observed in the jail population categories from month to month are impacted by any number of these factors and cannot be attributed to a single cause and effect.

Note: Effective Housing Capacity is equivalent to 93% of the total number of beds available. At any given time, approximately seven percent of beds are unavailable due to classification issues, repairs, construction, etc. thus preventing 100% utilization of all beds in the facility. The Texas Commission on Jail Standards (TCJS) has approved the use of 580 variance beds in the Harris County Jail. When this additional capacity is added to the design capacity, the total number of beds rises to 10,014, but 7% (701 beds) must be subtracted from this number to determine the effective housing capacity which is 9,313. (The number of variance beds is subject to periodic review by TCJS.)
